INTRODUCTION

The compilation of this brief family genealogy has been undertaken for the purpose of preserving for posterity the data personally collected over a period of years.

Owing to the difficulty of securing and currently posting all events pertaining to a rapidly growing clan and also to the futility of expecting to complete a record that will extend beyond the authors life span, he has no choice but to offer The Decendants of George Mitchell of Devonshire England in its present unfinished state.

This genealogy is based upon material obtained from many sources: mainly from the individual members of the family, to whom I am deeply indebted.

ROLLIN E. DRAKE

The usual plan is followed in this genealogy of numbering each person consecutively and thereby indicating that the record of this person will be carried forward and found in the next generation under the same number and this time as head of a family.

First Generation

GEORGE MITCHELL of Devonshire England, is known to have lived the major portion of his life in the vicinity of Tavistock. His occupation was that of farmer and buyer of cattle.^(e) A brief entry in the Township Register at Tavistock, Eng., records the death of one George Mitchell on December 8, 1869 of apoplexy, aged 69 years.^(g) Little is known of his ancestry or immediate family; According to family tradition one brother married a Brock and another brother married a Perry.^(f) Members of the Perry family are interred in Bideford, Tavistock and Bath.⁽ⁱ⁾

Among relatives of George Mitchell who migrated to the United States, all of whom are now deceased, are Daniel Powell of Marquette, Mich., Mary Ann Goodman of Negaunee, Mich., Mary Hutchings and Susan Pellow. It is believed that the four last named persons were first or second cousins.^(h)

George Mitchell married Ann Hodge and the couple lived at Milton Abbot, Devonshire, where four of their children, namely Christiana, John Perry, George and Eliza were born.^(e) Later the family lived at Bridestow and Tavistock. George Mitchell was survived by his wife and seven children. Ann Hodge Mitchell continued to reside in Tavistock until her death January 1, 1886, aged 71 years. She was a parishioner of the Tavistock Parish Church. Is buried in New Cemetary Lot B.B.60.^(g)

All that is known concerning the family of Ann Hodge is that one of her brothers is reputed to have been the game-keeper for the Duke of Bedford, whose residence was known as Endsleigh House. One sister married a Cudlip, another (Julia) married a Millman and a third sister at the age of forty married a Mr. Hurd and gave birth to seven children in seven years. Jim hurd, a nephew, built the stone house near the north boundary of the Rolling Mill Mine property at Negaunee, Mich. ⁽¹⁾
